CHALLENGES

- Some of the challenges facing IDPs are congestion. The space is too small for such populations; people feel congested and live in the same place where you cannot differentiate between families. There is no personal space.
- New arrivals of IDPs evicted from different IDP camps or drought stricken people are eminent on weekly bases, increasing high demands and expectation in current intervention areas of the camps located in Benadir region districts.
- Fear of eviction by land owners to IDP camps. Most of the land settled by the camps are owned by individual and there is likelihood of being evicted any time
- The interplay between drought and armed conflict continues to be a driving force behind the displacement. General lawlessness, human rights violations and evictions also continue to push people from their homes or prevent them from returning
- Security always remain a factor be determined in south central Somalia, IDP camps are prone to encounter in sectary hitches
- Acquiring a complete and accurate picture of the IDPs and displacement-affected populations in Mogadishu is challenging due to the volatile security and fluctuating displacement situation.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Project was done from January 2017 throughout the year and the implementation commenced on December the same year thus no delays of implementation. Procurements and distributions were done at the right time. The food distributions and constructions of water points had great positive impacts on the IDPs general living in all the ten mentioned camps in the two regions in different districts that previously had no access to better food and water points which are the main primary need of life.

Constant support of IDPs with the most basic needs such as food, water, housing facilities, improved training of youth or creation of awareness and also provision of different peace building talks in the ten mentioned camps will be necessary to increase their moral and emotional support.
